

Technology standards, specifications, and authoritative descriptions of the technologies such as those found in users manual. Only the current versions or the normative version and drafts would be found in this collection. See “Superseded Editions” for historical versions of documents found in this collection

Use of the technology and opinions would be found in the archives.

Documents are generally organized by publisher.

There is a special collection for manuals describing specific hardware, software, and user manuals and guides.